

ated vote of the four candidates follows:

Curran, 30,287.
Bennett, 1,954.
Haskell, 25,042.
La Guardia, 13,678.

The returns showed that John Kirkland Clark, the Republican-coalition candidate for District Attorney, defeated Theodore T. Baylor, the Bennett candidate, by a vote of 3 to 1.

At midnight Samuel Koenig, chairman of the New York Republican County Committee, issued the following statement:

"The enrolled Republicans have rendered their decision, and it is overwhelmingly in favor of Major Curran. It is a great beginning in the fight against Tammany Hall. I have no doubt that Curran's recent opponents will now join with him and make common cause against Tammany. This has been a great day for good government."

Vincent Gilroy, candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen on the Republican-coalition ticket, issued the following statement shortly after the polls had closed and returns were being received:

"The enrolled Republicans have indicated their desire for good government in no uncertain terms by the overwhelming vote they have given Henry H. Curran. There seems to be no question that we have won."

All the Republican organization designees for borough and county offices were nominated.

Judge Edgar F. Harleton was nominated by the Queens Republicans for Borough President over Peter B. Campbell by about five to one.

Joseph M. Levine, organization designee for the Republican nomination for Borough President in the Bronx, easily defeated Joseph P. Murphy.

George W. Baker was an easy victor for the Republican nomination for Borough President of Brooklyn over Hamilton MacIntyre.

Brooklyn Worries Curran Men

Reports coming into Curran headquarters at the Hotel Hermitage at the closing of the polls were to the effect that the Republican organization in Brooklyn had not got out a big vote. The same reports, however, came from Brooklyn, the stronghold of Judge Haskell, and the Curran managers were both cheered and worried.

While John J. Lyons, campaign manager for Borough President Curran, felt confident that the Republican coalition candidate would win, he and the other Curran workers were anxious about the Brooklyn situation.

Mr. Lyons was in frequent communication over the telephone with Jacob A. Livingston, Kings County chairman, up to the time the polls closed. Some of the Curran men felt that Livingston needed considerable prodding to keep him awake and attentive to the Curran interests in Brooklyn.

Senator William M. Calder and F. J. H. Kracke, the Brooklyn leaders, also were in frequent touch with Mr. Lyons. The Curran campaign manager stuck to his former prediction that Curran would win by a majority of about 20,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

None of the Curran workers seemed to figure Fiorello H. La Guardia or William M. Bennett in the running for first place.

There was a chance for Curran to carry Brooklyn against Haskell, Mr. Lyons declared it would be "a miracle" if he did. The Curran managers were disposed to pin their faith on a majority of about 25,000 to 30,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

None of the Curran workers seemed to figure Fiorello H. La Guardia or William M. Bennett in the running for first place.

There was a chance for Curran to carry Brooklyn against Haskell, Mr. Lyons declared it would be "a miracle" if he did. The Curran managers were disposed to pin their faith on a majority of about 25,000 to 30,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

None of the Curran workers seemed to figure Fiorello H. La Guardia or William M. Bennett in the running for first place.

There was a chance for Curran to carry Brooklyn against Haskell, Mr. Lyons declared it would be "a miracle" if he did. The Curran managers were disposed to pin their faith on a majority of about 25,000 to 30,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

None of the Curran workers seemed to figure Fiorello H. La Guardia or William M. Bennett in the running for first place.

There was a chance for Curran to carry Brooklyn against Haskell, Mr. Lyons declared it would be "a miracle" if he did. The Curran managers were disposed to pin their faith on a majority of about 25,000 to 30,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

None of the Curran workers seemed to figure Fiorello H. La Guardia or William M. Bennett in the running for first place.

There was a chance for Curran to carry Brooklyn against Haskell, Mr. Lyons declared it would be "a miracle" if he did. The Curran managers were disposed to pin their faith on a majority of about 25,000 to 30,000. Other Curran workers declared they would be satisfied if he polled 15,000 votes more than the Brooklyn Judge.

Vote for the Mayoralty In the Republican Primary

Borough	Curran	Bennett	Haskell	La Guardia	E. D. Miles
Manhattan	32,777	990	2,536	10,478	181
Brooklyn	32,501	1,793	18,620	11,904	118
Queens	6,852	491	2,244	2,105	89
Richmond	2,545	68	147	702	0
Totals	83,425	3,777	24,557	30,955	455

453 election districts missing out of a total of 2,733.

MANHATTAN (181 Districts Missing)

A. D.	Curran	Bennett	Haskell	La Guardia
1....	426	7	58	811
2....	782	11	40	1301
3....	1680	43	138	481
4....	491	4	10	59
5....	980	42	128	275
6....	1328	17	54	257
7....	2412	67	189	242
8....	717	56	78	778
9....	1627	39	123	138
10....	3551	30	150	604
11....	1648	42	126	240
12....	2412	67	189	242
13....	1240	57	73	225
14....	785	36	88	321
15....	2342	28	144	159
16....	1167	43	148	320
17....	875	41	87	274
18....	900	40	89	328
19....	1666	63	125	328
20....	699	28	70	787
21....	1826	137	161	362
22....	2041	64	157	320
23....	85	45	142	286
Totals	30177	980	2536	10478

QUEENS (89 Districts Missing)

A. D.	Curran	Bennett	Haskell	La Guardia
1....	620	75	139	580
2....	727	78	383	264
3....	898	55	89	352
4....	1731	79	408	245
5....	1823	84	500	313
6....	1283	123	715	351
Totals	6882	494	2244	2105

RICHMOND

A. D.	Curran	Bennett	Haskell	La Guardia
1....	1531	38	58	308
2....	1014	30	89	394
Totals	2545	68	147	702

of the 12th Assembly District, thirty-seven hundred and fifty up to 8 p. m. and only twenty-nine men.

The first ballot in the 8th Election District of the 12th Assembly District was cast by a woman, Mrs. Margaret Markendorf, who is seventy-seven years old and who reached the polling place twenty minutes ahead of time, so as to be sure of getting the first ballot.

The next voter in line was a woman, Mrs. Burke, who is eighty-one years old.

From the first indications in Manhattan led to the belief that Borough President Curran was taking the lead, the women Republicans coming out in force. In the various Little Italies, where the banners of Mr. La Guardia were numerous, the early vote was light, but after the 5 o'clock whistle blew the polling places were busy and it was figured that most of the Republican votes in these sections went to the President of the Board of Aldermen, who was on the Italian front in the war.

Even in Brooklyn, where the politicians had expressed the frequent and emphatic opinion that Judge Reuben H. Haskell would walk away from Mr. Curran when the votes were counted, the betting favored Mr. Curran. At Fred Schumm's on Fulton Street, long the headquarters of election betting in that borough, the odds were two to one that Curran would win and three to one that he would beat Haskell.

Brooklyn Republican leaders were inclined to think that La Guardia would have an easy time of it in Queens, because of the large number of vote there and the difficulty of getting out the independent Republican voters, a large percentage of whom live in the remote and exclusive sections of the borough.

Judge Haskell and his lieutenants betrayed not the slightest uneasiness as they took stations at his headquarters at the closing of the polls, despite the odds demanded by those placing their money on him in his own borough. His headquarters was on the nineteenth floor of the Hotel Commodore. Although apparently confident of success, Judge Haskell was reticent.

"Anything that I might say now," he said, "would be merely of a sentimental nature, so why say anything?"

Guard Against Fraud

Reports that fraud might be attempted in some of the districts caused John R. Voorhis, president of the Board of Elections, to send requests to all election officials to be especially vigilant to prevent any one from placing enrolled members of political parties from casting ballots. He also requested the Police Department to see that no violations of the election law took place.

The Board of Elections met during the day, but transacted only routine business. It complied with a request from District Attorney Swanwick that a map of the 11th Assembly District be sent him.

Commissioner Voorhis directed the election officials in all the boroughs to have motor cars to take them to any point in their jurisdiction where disputes might arise.

In spite of the activity of the women voters in most parts of the city, particularly in the upper East Side districts, women of the lower East Side regarded the primary with apathy, apparently. Not only was the early vote, which in most parts of the city was cast largely by women, extremely light in the lower East Side, but when the polls closed it was reported that of 837 ballots cast in twelve election districts in that section of the city, only 99 were those of women.

At the polling place of the 8th Election District of the 2d Assembly District, Public School 7, Hester and Chrystie streets, there was a flurry just before the polls closed, when a citizen of Italian origin objected vociferously on discovering that La Guardia's name was not on the Democratic ballot.

Before election officials could explain to him that La Guardia was not seeking the Democratic nomination, and that he himself had received a Democratic ballot because he was enrolled as a member of that party, the indignant citizen had rushed to the Clinton Street police station, whence he dispatched several patrolmen to find out "what all the trouble was." The voter himself did not return.

Women Outnumber Men

Women held the lead in the voting throughout the Washington Heights district, it was said when the polls closed, though the vote in that part of the city was light. In proportion to registration, it was said, more men being enrolled than women, the women voters outnumbered the men.

In the 12th Election District of the 22d Assembly District only 130 of 589 enrolled voters cast ballots. Less than one-third of the 703 enrolled voters in the 9th Election District of the 21st Assembly District cast ballots yesterday.

Brooklyn County reported the heaviest primary vote in years, due, it was said, to interest in local contests and to the big vote cast by women. Women voted in equal strength with the men, it was said by district captains in the Bronx. The polls were thronged throughout the voting hours, but no disorder was reported.

Hines's Manager Shot; Slugged in Boss's District

(Continued from page one)

tween First and Second Avenues and within about 200 feet of Charles F. Murphy's home at 305 East Seventeenth Street.

The count of the ballots was about complete when the four automobiles drew up at the curb and a gang of men, said to have numbered sixteen, burst in upon the watchers and inspectors. According to Patrolman Doonan, of the East Twenty-second Street police station, on duty in the booth, the men made a concerted rush for the ballot boxes and had laid their hands on some of them when he drove them back with his nightstick, assisted by the election officials.

Detectives Brescott and Kane, who were across the street from the booth, heard the uproar and came up on the roof, their blackjacks in their hands. Seeing a uniformed policeman beset by a mob of men, they wielded their weapons vigorously and cleared the booth of the invaders.

They made off in their automobiles before the policemen got the numbers of their cars, but it was said that they were of the inauspicious type. The fugitives raced up Second Avenue, and as they passed Twentieth Street, where the Anawanda Club, Murphy's own organization, stands, they were followed by a mob of men, who were firing at them.

Those in the club, among whom were Murphy, Justice Joseph P. Moss, of Special Sessions, Surrogate James Foley, Murphy's son-in-law and Assistant District Attorney Sabatino, thought they were under fire and came rushing from the upper floor in their shirt sleeves. Whether the shot from the door was smashed in their sudden rush to the street or by a bullet, is not known. By the time the men reached the stoop, the automobiles were out of sight.

Shallek Disputes Police Version

That is the police version of the affray, Shallek's is different. He and about twenty of his friends went to the polling place, he said, to insure the reports of fraud. They entered without difficulty, and he obtained an enrollment book in which he was examining about fifteen signatures when he said, looked queer to him.

There were five men in the room, he said. He saw one of them, a man in plain clothes, Shallek said one of them seized him by the shoulder as he was looking at the book. He turned to the uniformed policeman on duty in the booth, ignorant of the fact that his opponent was himself a policeman and asked him to make the man take his hand from his shoulder.

The uniformed man laughed at me," said Shallek, "and the man who had me by the shoulder said: 'I am an officer myself. You are one of the dirty Hines's bunch!'"

That remark, Shallek declared, was a prelude to a blow with a nightstick which laid his scalp open and drove him to the floor. The companions of the detectives, he said, kicked him as he lay on the floor, and one of them drew a revolver and fired at him. The bullet grazed his chest on a level with his heart.

"Lock the doors!" somebody shouted, Shallek said, "and as that was done the attack on Hines's men began in earnest. His supporters were clubbed and beaten to the floor like himself, one of them, Joseph O'Neill, suffered several scalp wounds, Shallek declared.

One of the Hines men reached the door and forced it open, Shallek said, and all rushed to the street, jumped into the cars and made their escape. Fully fifty shots were fired after them, he said. One of his party failed to reach the automobiles and still was missing early today.

Dr. L. R. Peck, of 235 West 112th Street, attended Shallek at the hotel and said that his injuries, except for the bullet crease, undoubtedly were caused by bludgeoning and revolver butts. His wounds required forty stitches.

Robbers Chop Way to Loot

The Metropolitan Theater, at Third Avenue and 43d Street, was entered by robbers early yesterday morning. The intruders used an ax to demolish the wall of the office where the safe was standing and made off with $1,000.

The theater is operated by Kraus Brothers, Inc., who have three other theaters. The money stolen was reported to four places. The thieves left fingerprints.

Curran's Mother and Wife KNEW He'd Win

Mrs. Henry H. Curran, wife of the winning candidate, and Mrs. John Elliot Curran, his mother, were at Curran headquarters last night to receive the news of his victory.

"I feel very proud," said Mrs. Henry H. Curran. "I am proud that my husband has won his fight, and I am especially proud because women, the first time they had an opportunity to take part in a city election, came forward in the cause of good government."

"I know that my husband's ticket means good government."

"Glad!" cried Mrs. John Curran. "Of course I'm glad. How else could a mother feel when she sees the success of her boy? I knew it early this afternoon, though. I went around to see for myself how things were going, and when I found one district—it was the 25th Election District of the 15th Assembly District—where they gave Henry 68 votes out of a possible 75, then I knew that he was going to win."

Women Voted for Curran Three to One, Says Bennett

'Anyhow, I Hope They Won't Forget It Was I That Put the Crimp in Haskell,' He Tells Newspaper Men

William M. Bennett, after an automobile tour of the city yesterday in which he visited scores of polling places, arrived last night at his offices at 15 William Street, where he received the returns, shortly after 8 o'clock. His first words on entering the offices, where he was greeted by a group of newspaper men, were:

"I only hope that the Curran people won't forget that it was I that put the crimp in Haskell. But I don't think they will."

After making this concession, Mr. Bennett entered an inner office, where he remained until the arrival of Joseph Behr, candidate for judgeship in General Sessions; Leo Herlihy, his secretary; George Thomas, a law partner of Bennett's; and L. Barton Case, the Bennett candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen.

Following a brief conference in his private office, Bennett, accompanied by his secretary, emerged and discussed the primary with the press.

"We all feel," he said, "that the women have the whole situation in their hands. I believe that the women's vote will go to Curran three to one."

He then spoke of his tour of the city, and expressed belief that in certain quarters trickery had been done in connection with the voting. He referred to two voting places on the East Side in particular, and said he had called the District Attorney's attention to these places. At one of these polling places, Bennett said, a patrolman was believed to have been preparing the ballots and marking them before they were used. In other cases he charged that sample ballots which had been sent out by certain candidates were being accepted.

Mrs. Sabin Gets Even With Judge at Polls

Banker's Wife Wins Campaign to Defeat Justice With Whom She Had Road Quarrel

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 13.—(Press.) John G. Peck, of Southampton, L. I., received the nomination to-day on the Republican ticket for Assemblyman in the 1st District of Suffolk County. Mrs. Sabin and Kendrick had a controversy some time ago over the right to use a road on the Sabin estate, in the Shinnecock Hills. Mrs. Sabin won out as a committee woman in her own district, while Kendrick, who sought a similar office in his district, went down to defeat.

Bee Causes Motor Wreck

MILLBROOK, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The second automobile accident caused by a bee in Dutchess County within a week occurred here to-day.

P. R. Huber, of Beacon, was driving a truck along the state highway at Wicopee when a bee flew into his eye. He lost control of the machine and it crashed into a fence and was wrecked.

Several days ago a bee lit on the neck of Mrs. Charles W. Bonner while he was driving her machine near Millerton, causing the wrecking of the car.

Curran Calls On Voters to Begin Real Work Now

(Continued from page one)

ing the Republican party just because I happened to be beaten."

Mr. Lyons was in communication with Messrs. La Guardia, Haskell and Bennett last night, and invited them to luncheon at the National Republican Club to-day to meet and confer with the successful candidate. Judge Haskell was the first of the contestants reached, and Mr. Lyons said he assured him that he would be on hand and that he would support Curran for election.

La Guardia to Aid Curran

La Guardia said at an early hour this morning that he conceded that Curran had swept the city.

"I shall support Major Curran loyally," said Mr. La Guardia. "He has made a splendid run, and he has earned the allegiance of every Republican in this city. Major Curran and myself emphasized in our campaign the right of the people to elect their own representatives to rule New York City."

This fight against the encroachment of up-state politicians in our home affairs that brought the Republicans in vast numbers to the polls yesterday, and the approval of our fight for home rule. Every vote cast for Major Curran and myself was a vote cast against Millerism and the attempt of provincial politicians to rule New York City."

Mr. Bennett also accepted the invitation to the luncheon at the Republican Club. Mr. Lyons had not been able to get in touch with Mr. La Guardia last night, but when the latter was informed of Lyons's efforts he said:

"I shall certainly accept the invitation when it is extended to me."

Policewoman Accused Of Being Poll Worker

May E. Conney Explains She Merely Helped Her Daughter, an Election Clerk

Chief Inspector Lahey and Acting Captain John C. Amon, commanding the Woman's Police station, began an investigation last night into complaints that Policewoman May E. Conney, of Captain Amon's command, had been acting as Democratic captain in the polling place at Public School 56, 207th Street and Hull Avenue, the Bronx.

Indignation sent to a polling place where Mrs. Conney standing beside the registration table stuffing papers and apparently taking an official share in the conduct of the voting. She admitted her identity and said she had gone there merely to aid her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Freere, an election clerk.

"I course I'm not a Democratic captain," said Mrs. Conney. "All I've been doing has been to assist in comparing signatures on last year's books with new ones. I don't see any harm in that and with a few questions I can. I suppose some catny woman has been trying to make out I am here for an evil purpose."

Captain Amon said last night that if Mrs. Conney had been acting as a polling station, charges would be preferred against her.

Leaves Dummy in Cell And Scales Sing Sing Wall

Joseph Saraco, Bronx Slayer, Saws Bars and Escapes; Dog Barks Alarm

OSISING, N. Y., Sept. 14 (Wednesday).—Joseph Saraco, twenty-three years old, who was sentenced to ten years in prison for manslaughter in Bronx County in 1919, escaped from Sing Sing prison early this morning.

Saraco was in his cell when the count was made last night. At 2 o'clock this morning a dog in the freight yard of a factory near the prison was heard barking loudly and a watchman reported to the prison officials that he had seen a man fleeing down the prison tracks.

An alarm was sent out at once and a count of the prisoners was made. A dummy was found on the cot in Saraco's cell. It was a crude affair of gunny sacking, stuffed with paper. The bars on the cell window had been sawed. To escape was necessary for Saraco to pull himself through a trap door, slide down a telephone cable and scale a ten foot fence.

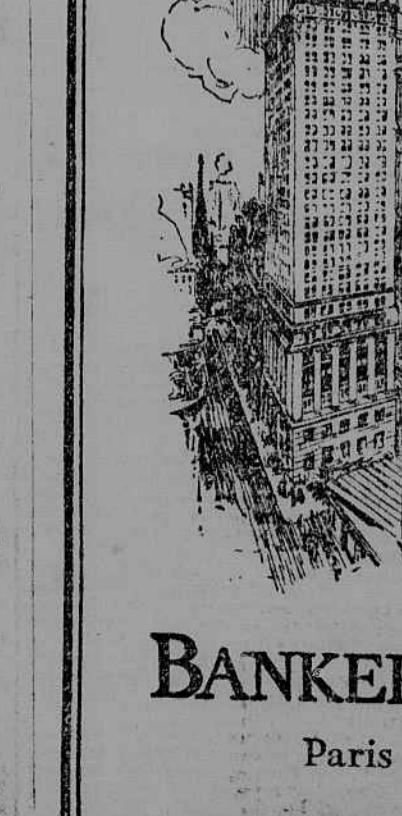

This is the first break at Sing Sing in several months.

West Orange Rejects Rule by Commission for Second Time

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 13.—For the second time in eight years the voters of this place, at a referendum, decided to-day against the commission form of government by 373 votes.

There were 1,454 votes in favor of the proposition and 1,230 against it. The provisions of the Walsh act, creating commission government, require that 30 per cent of the vote cast at the last general election is necessary for the adoption of commission government. Under this act 1,237 votes were required to-day in favor of the change, but the advocates failed by 373 votes to bring this about.

"A Tower of Strength"

Veterans' Bureau Medical Chief Summarily Ousted

Dr. Emerson, Who Charged Politics in Work, Dismissed on Orders of Forbes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The summary dismissal of Dr. Haven Emerson, medical adviser of the United States Veterans' Bureau, who was quoted as having said in a speech at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday that the bureau was "being made the football of politics," was announced to-night by Acting Director Leon Fraser.

Colonel C. B. Forbes, director of the bureau, who is on an inspection trip to the Pacific Coast, declared that Dr. Emerson's charge that $500,000 was being used for political patronage "is unqualifiedly false."

"The facts are that I found the medical division, under his direction, in a chaotic condition, little short of a public scandal," he said. "He had 65,000 cases awaiting action and was losing ground every day, while sick and destitute men clamored for aid. Dr. Emerson, though of high professional medical capacity, demonstrated such a complete absence of executive ability or administrative common sense that I was forced to place a medical executive officer, Lieutenant Colonel R. J. Patterson, in charge of the division and to indicate to Dr. Emerson that his services were no longer desired."

Husband Seeks Missing Wife

Cornelius O'Donnell, of 69 Nelson Street, Brooklyn, requested the Missing Persons Bureau yesterday to help in the search for his wife, Mrs. Hannah O'Donnell, who disappeared July 1 with her nine-year-old son while on her way to Tottenham, S. I.

Kincaid Is Renominated For Mayor of Mt. Vernon

Women Poll Heavy Vote in Hot Fight Between Republican Candidates

MT. VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The primary fight between Mayor Elmer L. Kincaid and Alderman Harry Kelle for the Republican nomination for Mayor of Mt. Vernon resulted in the renomination of Mayor Kincaid by a majority of about 350 votes. Many women turned out to support Mayor Kincaid.

The Republican organization declined to endorse either candidate and let the rivals fight it out in the primaries.

Alderman Sedgwick, who was opposed for renomination in the 2d Ward by Mrs. Henry Leonard, wife of an actor, defeated his opponent by a small majority.

Former Mayor Edwin W. Fluke received the unanimous support of the Democrats for the mayoralty nomination in Mt. Vernon. The contest between the Republican candidates was one of the most exciting ever held in the city. About 5,000 enrolled Republicans voted.

Best MADE CLOTHES FOR BOYS

FINE CHINA PLATES

MINTON, CROWN STAFFORDSHIRE, CAULDON, DOULTON

CROWN DERBY, COPELAND, COALPORT AND LENOX

TIFFANY & Co.

FIFTH AVENUE & 37th STREET

Fancy Mixture Suits

with 2 pairs of pants

$15.50

SIZES 8 to 16 YEARS

FORTIFIED against wear, not only by the extra garment, but by all the other "extras" that distinguish Best-made clothes—extra quality fabrics, extra careful tailoring, extra exact patterns.

Other Mixture Suits $20.50 to $27.50

Mackinaws in Variety $10.50 to $15.50

NEW SHAPES AND COLORS

LEND INTEREST TO THE

AUTUMN SHOWING OF

Boys Golf Caps - 1.50

Best & Co.

FIFTH FLOOR

5th AVE. AT 35th

"Hello!"

Send me up three long glasses, some ice, a cork screw, and two bottles of White Rock water"

